Awareness raising, no advocacy

- Which audience?
- Getting the message across
- Improvement plans
- Remaining problems
- Best practices?
Audience of University Library (UL)

Either not aware of OA opportunities

Or aware, looking for specific solutions for workflow etc

Both groups don’t want to be bothered with governmental or publishers’ policies, OA definitions, copyright matters, funding clauses etc
Means to reach out, to share information

1. blog/newsletter
2. personalised/dedicated mailings to authors
3. teaching or information sessions/seminars (during Open Week)
4. OA portal of University Library
5. publishing on OA in academic journals
Publishing on OA in academic journals

Improvement plans

1. developing a short video for a pitch

2. new structure & contents for OA site of UL

3. OA campaign of Dutch universities (starts next week!)
Remaining problems

1. researchers want information just in time
2. researchers don’t expect OA information from ULs
3. publishers’ workflows are not uniform and don’t coexist
4. International Open Week does not ring a bell
Best practices?
